Good morning, Chip. I honestly wasn't sure who I should contact about my questions/concerns but thought I would start with you.

It was my understanding that all new construction should be accessible to all. Other private schools may have been exempted from doing so, but I wasn't on the board at that time. I don't agree that if it was granted in the past then it should be granted now. If a school can raise over 4 million dollars for a stadium, why are we allowing them to not have to make it accessible? I am picturing my kids high school and their stadium. There are students as well as coaches who utilize that 'press box'. A person with a physical disability would not be able to participate and that just doesn't seem right to me.

Appreciate your time.
