To whom it may concern:

The nature of the owner's business (real estate) makes conducting business off site, IE the owner's home or subject sale property negates the need for accessibility at this site. The owner is the only employee and he will deal with personal accessibility issues as they present themselves.

The nature of the residence is very small. It would compromise the character of this historic structure to modify it to meet accessibility standards.

Sincerely,

Joseph P. McCarty
